Bert Taylor of Carmel puts final touches on his handbuilt Porsche Special, which he designed and fabricated especially for Sunday's Pebble Beach Sports Car Road Races. Bert will drive his fiberglass-bodied roadster in the Del Monte Handicap, facing such competition as MGs, Simcas, Morettis and Siatas in the field of 35. His hottest competition, however, may come from another Carmelite: J. P. Kunstle, who will drive a brand-new Porsche coupe in the same race.

Election Tuesday To Fill Two City Council Vacancies

Election will be held Tuesday to fill two vacancies on the city council. Polling places are Sunset School, Youth Center, City Hall and Fire House. Polls will be open from 9:00 o'clock in the morning until 7:00 o'clock in the evening. Here are the candidates. Vote for two.

Incumbent John Chitwood has lived on the Peninsula since 1946 and was elected to the council in 1950. He served two years as commissioner of health and safety under Mayor Allen Knight, and following Mayor Horace Lyon's election in 1952 was appointed police commissioner.

Clay Otto, draftsman and builder, has been a Carmel resident since 1921. A member of the Carmel Art Association, he designed and helped build the Carmel Art Gallery.

Eben Whittlesey, attorney, has practiced law here since his move to Carmel in 1942. He is a past president of the Community Chest, former vice-president of the Carmel Business Association, has served on the board of directors of the Red Cross and is a member of the Carmel Lions Club.

William Morlang made his permanent home in Carmel in June of last year following his graduation from San Jose State College. He is proprietor of an automotive tune-up shop, while his wife, Hilda, is a physical education instructor at Carmel High School.

Carl Patnude, service station proprietor, has lived in Carmel since 1947. He is a past president of Carmel Kiwanis, a member of the Masonic Lodge, and has served for several years as a member of the Carmel Special Police.

Roland W. Scheffler, salesman, was born and educated on the Peninsula and has lived in Carmel since 1951. He is a member of the Carmel Music Society and an active participant in the Carmel Shakespeare group for many years before he made his home in Carmel.

Leo Tanous, who was the first to file his nomination papers, has since been declared ineligible for office due to a change in residence, although his name will appear on the ballot.

Racers Arrive For Sports Car Annual Circus

Some 30,000 sports car enthusiasts will descend on the Monterey Peninsula this week end for one of the most colorful and exciting sports events in the country: the fifth running of the Pebble Beach Sports Car Road Races.

A good number of these enthusiasts will give Carmel an unofficial concours d'elegance, as usually peaceful Ocean Avenue resounds to the rumble of highly-tuned engines and curbs are crowded with the foreign-made cars.

The cream of automotive aristocracy will be on display tomorrow afternoon from 1:00 to 5:00 o'clock on the 18th green at Del Monte Lodge for the true Concours d'Elegance. Over 100 entries, including the finest in American and foreign sports cars as well as classic and vintage cars, will be shown and judged by a panel of experts.

Among the many Peninsula entries in the Concours will be the Austine Sheerline of R. F. Inwood, Carmel Highlands; Bob Baird's Mercedes 180 and 1954 Panhard; the 1948 Jaguar Mark V belonging to Mr. and Mrs. Bill Woods of Carmel Valley; Rocky Bowersox's Nash-Healey; Barbara Krieger's 1954 Volkswagen. In addition, Alton Walker of Pebble Beach will show his magnificent 1913 Rolls-Royce touring car and a 1905 Buick, and C. Taylor Pillsbury a 1935 Packard and a 1925 Ford sedan in the classic division.

Race competitors will drive practice laps tomorrow afternoon, with actual racing to begin Sunday morning at 10:00 o'clock. Two races for novice drivers will be run from 10:00 o'clock to 12:30, at which time spectators will witness a rare spectacle—a special five-lap event for vintage sports cars. The first of the two main events for senior drivers, the Pebble Beach Cup, will begin at 1:00 o'clock, and the final race, the Del Monte Cup, gets under way at 2:30 o'clock.

There will be no admission charge for the Concours d'Elegance Saturday. Tickets for the races Sunday will be available at the course, benefits will go to the American Cancer Society.

Council Does This And That; Nothing Drastic

The Carmel City Council, Wednesday night, postponed action on the planning commission's request for funds to hire a landscape architect to assist in improving lower Ocean Avenue, but adopted a resolution that:

"The council sets as a policy for lower Ocean Avenue that the first consideration is the beautification and planting of the area."

An ordinance amending the garbage rates to be effective June 1 was given first reading. New rates are a 25 percent increase for one receptacle, from $1.00 to $1.25. The rate increase for two or three receptacles is 20 percent; for four, 15 percent; for five or six, 10 percent. These are monthly rates, providing for once a week collection.

Editor's

Column

Tal Josselyn asked us to run this the issue before election.

Thirty years ago Perry Newberry, as a candidate for the Carmel City Council, made his stand on the following platform:

"Believing that what 9,999 towns out of 10,000 want is just what Carmel shouldn't have, I am a candidate for trustee on the platform, DON'T BOOST! I am making a spirited campaign to win by asking those who disagree with me to vote against me."

On the village bulletin board he tacked this poster:

"Don't vote for Perry Newberry. If you hope to see Carmel become a city."

If you want its growth boosted. If you desire its commercial success.

If street lamps on its corners mean happiness to you.

If concrete street pavements represent your civic ambitions.

If you have less regard for the unique character of Carmel than for the opportunity of money making.

If you think that a glass factory is of greater value than a sand dune, or a millionaire than an artist, or a mansion than a little brown cottage.

If you want Carmel to become a bustling, hustling, wide-awake lively metropolis, DON'T VOTE FOR PERRY NEWBERRY."

(It can be remarked in passing that Perry Newberry was elected.)

You will vote for two city councilmen Tuesday. We have listed the seven candidates elsewhere on this page with their background. We have not asked them for statements of policy or opinions on city problems. There's no point in asking a man who has never seen snow to state if he favors the Austrian or French method of skiing. From the speeches they made at the candidates' meeting at Sunset Auditorium Friday night, it was obvious that, with the exception of the incumbent, those who expressed definite opinions didn't know what they were talking about. How could they? Until they declared their candidacy a few weeks ago, only two of them had ever attended a council meeting, and those two had come because they were serving on a committee or representing a client who wanted

The pool will be heated to a cozy 75 degrees and Cap Johnson, veteran pool engineer, guarantees the chlorine content will be perfect for enjoyable swimming. Participants must furnish their own suit and towel as rental facilities are not available at the High School pool. Summer-time admission rates prevail—15c for students and 50c for adults.

CIRCLING THE BASES

Jim Tidwell's MPC Lobos make their home baseball debut tomorrow morning against the power-laden Hartnell Panthers. The Lobos appear to have a better balanced aggregation than they fielded last season, but are still sadly lacking in the pitching department. Against Moffett Field last week, Coach Tidwell had to use everybody but the traveling secretary in an attempt to stop the Sunnyvale sluggers. Tomorrow morning, Gary Childs will match his control and mound cunning against the blazing speed of Harold Kolstad, Watsonville's contribution to the Hartnell squad. In the second game of the league double-header, Jim Kuwatani, a cunnythumb with a baffling curve, will oppose Hartnell's smooth Chuck Dillard. Hartnell is given a good chance to repeat their championship performance of last year and are heavy favorites to dispose of the Lobos. . . . Tom Smith, Monterey Serra baseball coach, is guiding one of the best high school teams of the area this year as witness the Cardinals 15-4 win over the Carmel Padres. A tiny pitching sensation, Max Garcia, makes the Smith-led Junipero gang a match for any preps. A starboard-flinging Bobby Schanz, Garcia has the poise of a professional pitcher and can hit the ball with the best of them.

CARMEL TRACKSTERS MAKE GOOD SHOWING

Although outmanned by Watsonville's superiority in numbers, the Carmel High track squad made a real good showing and posted several school records for their enthusiastic efforts. The meet was a three-way affair with Watsonville topping both the lightweight and varsity divisions. Carmel picked up second place in the lightweight division and trailed in the heavyweight class.

New lightweight school records were racked up as Bob Alvarez romped through a 16.1 150-yard dash and Mike Mosolf broad-jumped 19-10 for a new mark and high-jumped 5-7 to tie Erik Short's record which has been on the boards since 1948. Carmel's lightweight relay team of Alvarez, Bill Powell, Mosolf and Tom Petty shattered the once-around mark in a second-place relay effort.

In the varsity division Jim O'Dell won the hurdles, Brayton Witherell was second in the half-mile, Mike Stanton was third and Don Rowe fourth in the century. Don Leidig copped third in the 440, George Wightman coasted to an easy win in the mile, and Kyrk Reid picked up a fourth in the discus.

Lightweight point-scorers included Mervyn Sutton, second in the 660; Bill McCormack, third in the 660; Bob Alvarez, fourth in the 75 and 150; Mike Mosolf, first in the broad-jump and high-jump and third in the high-hurdles; Millard Martin, fourth in the high-hurdles; Tom MacPhail, fourth in the low-hurdles; Clyde Klaumann, fourth in the 330; Bill Powell, third in the 330; Pierre Olivie, third in the discus; Tom Petty, first in the shot-put; Don Petty, fourth in the shot-put; Roger Smith, fourth in the high-jump.

This week's track finds the Padres at Gilroy tomorrow for a three-way meet with King City and Gilroy. The hard-working Padres will be back in their own class in this meet and have a good chance to finish on top in both the lightweight and varsity divisions. Tomorrow's meet starts at 1:30 p.m.

POWELL STARS AS PADRE NINE TOPS SANTA CRUZ

A sterling pitching performance by Bill Powell, diminutive Carmel High fast-ball specialist, paced the Padres to an upset 5-3 victory over the high-flying Santa Cruz Cardinals last Wednesday afternoon at the Surf City diamond. The hard-working little flinger held the classy cardinals to four blows and surmounted 8 miscues by his teammates to post the well-earned victory over the A division club. Bill scattered the hits in good fashion, allowing one in the second inning, two in the third, and one in the fifth. The Padres put together two good innings to notch the victory over the Cardinals. In the fourth heat, a resounding double by Don Leidig drove in Jim Konrad and Craig Chapman for the first Carmel scores, and in the big seventh, the Padres picked up three markers on four walks, a single by Leidig, and a Santa Cruz infield miscue.

Don Leidig, Carmel left-fielder, was the hitting star of the afternoon, collecting a solid three-for-four as he enjoyed a fine hitting spree. Jim Konrad, pint-sized second-sacker, was the fielding stalwart, handling several difficult chances without a boot and engineering a pickoff play which stamped a threatening Santa Cruz rally.

Victory over Santa Cruz bolsters the Padre's hopes for a successful season in the B league as the Cardinals upset potent Salinas in the A division opener last Friday afternoon. With Easter vacation scheduled for next week, the Carmel lads will go to the pits until April 20th when the Salinas Cowboys come to Carmel for a practice joust.

Carmel High's varsity baseball team moved out of the B division cellar at the expense of the Gilroy Mustangs last Friday afternoon as the local preps parlayed George Hunter's three-hit pitching, Dick Jennings' sensational fielding, and Mike Mosolf's clutch single into a tense 5-4 victory over the once-beaten Mustangs. Hunter, making his first start of the current season, showed good stuff over the seven-inning route and, except for spots of wildness, had game control most all the way. In chalking up his first victory, the versatile right-hander struck out 8 Gilroy swingers and dished out a like number of free passes.

The Padres first hit the scoreboard in the third heat as Paul Fratessa got life on an outfield error, Don Leidig hit a resounding double, Mike Mosolf walked and later scored on a wild pitch. In a big fourth inning, Carmel pushed across the clinching runs on Fratessa's single, walks to Leidig and Chapman, and Mosolf's single to left.

Gilroy threatened to pull the game out of the fire in the last frame when they worked runners to second and third with two away. However, Dick Jennings, Carmel right-fielder, picked this point to make the most brilliant fielding play of the game, racing into deep right to haul in a sure triple which would have given Gilroy the win.

HI CHATTER

By Susan Nutter

Congratulations to Verna Mae Shaw for winning a Masonic scholarship to the United Nations. Verna Mae entered an essay contest writing on United Nations in Action and competed with students in the western states and Hawaii. Only 30 were chosen of which Verna Mae, a sophomore, is one. The winners are considered delegates to the U.N. and will give individual speeches in the assembly.

Verna Mae will leave Sacramento June 5, and return on June 29. Besides visiting Washington, D.C. and New York, she will also tour the New England states, Niagara and Canada. The tour will cover most of the outstanding historical points in that area. She says, "It is a terrific opportunity for visiting the east, and will be a big help in U.S. history."

Verna Mae has previously placed in an American Legion essay contest.

Last Friday six students and a sponsor left Carmel to go to the Junior Statesmen State Convention in Long Beach. The delegates representing Carmel were Carol Boyd, Greg Danelz, Dave Castagna, Charlotte Boyd, John Farrell, Priscilla Clark, and their sponsor Alan Aldwell. They arrived in Long Beach Friday afternoon in time to register, and that night they attended the first legislative session. This included the introduction of several resolutions and the nomination speeches for governor and lieutenant governor.

Again on Saturday the group was in session all day, and at 7:00 o'clock in the evening the formal banquet and ball were held. On Sunday they drove home after a successful convention.

Easy Does It—Again!

Ladies Aid Society had their rummage sale the other night—and as soon as the doors opened, "Easy" Roberts was inside.

Without a word, he headed straight for the coat counter, picked out a shabby old tweed jacket, and paid for it. "Easy" told me a little later that buying his jacket back was getting to be a regular habit.

"That's been my favorite smoking jacket for years," he said. "And my wife talks me into giving it away regularly. Then I get to thinking how much I like it and hurry down to buy that jacket back. This is the third time I've done it!"

From where I sit, everyone's entitled to his own likes—whether it's a sports jacket, a baseball team, or the beverage he likes for dinner. For example, the wife likes coffee along with Saturday night spaghetti while I like a glass of beer. We never try to "sell" each other on our personal preferences.

Zenas Potter Tells World Affairs Audience It Will Be Tragic If We Blindly Lose India's Friendship

"The cards in India are all stacked in our favor," Zenas Potter told a World Affairs Council meeting in All Saints' Parish House Monday night. "If ever it goes communist, we shall have only our own stupid blunders to blame."

The Himalaya Mountains, on the North, practically shut off commerce with China and the communist world. India's economic ties with the world are by sea. And neither Russia, China nor India has any substantial commercial fleet. Similarly, India's cultural ties are with the West. English is the common language. And India is deep grounded in democratic traditions. Its government is patterned after that of the British. Its Bill of Rights is basically ours. India is proud of the fact that it held the greatest democratic elections in world history. The communists got only four percent of the vote in the last election.

We have four handicaps which can make us unpopular in India, if we do not handle them wisely. First is the fact that India sees no reason why imperialism should be continued anywhere in the world. It knows we are not imperialistic, but fears that our close association with the world's leading colony-owning nations, through NATO has made it impossible for us to also favor an end of colonialism.

Second, India bitterly resents racial discrimination. It doesn't dislike white people; but it resents any claims of racial superiority. India is deeply aware of our race problem. Difficulties of the colored races of South Africa make front page headlines. The people of India feel a link with the Chinese and Japanese, and the brown and black peoples of Southeast Asia and Africa. Any evidence of the white peoples hanging together against people of colored skins touches a deep emotional chord.

Third, the people of India, having won their independence, want to use their limited and precious resources, lifting themselves above the near-to-starvation level at which they have existed so long. They don't want to be drawn into what they consider the squabbles of distant peoples; diverting their energy and money to military enterprises. Their isolationism, in this respect, is not unlike that which our country followed for years, in regard to the wars of Europe.

Fourth, India won its independence by applying moral force through non-cooperation. As a result the people of India have more faith than we in this as an instrument of international policy. They point to our two world wars, which, they say, accomplished nothing but widespread death and destruction, and to the present armament race with weapons that can annihilate the human race, and ask what evidence there is that we have the better answer?

India, Potter said, is not entirely in its non-resistance policy. For when Pakistanian irregulars advanced into Kashmir, Nehru flew soldiers up there and held the country by force. It maintains a substantial army to protect its hold on Kashmir. That is why India has been so concerned over our military alliance with Pakistan.

military action. It went Red when Chiang Kai-shek's soldiers deserted to the other side, taking the arms we supplied along with them."

Not all the talk was devoted to discussing international problems. Zenas Potter told of his own personal experiences, of the problems presented by his job as Press Officer for our Embassy, and of the difficulties and accomplishments of India's democratic government. Generally speaking he felt Nehru's Congress Party was a sound operation, but the problems it faced remained difficult. "The greatest battle of the cold war," he said, "is between Red China and Democratic India. Both countries have vast populations living close to starvation. Both have new governments in which the people have great hopes. But China's government is Communist; India's is Democratic. If China's Red government makes an outstanding success of lifting the level of living of its people, while Democratic India fails, India may one day go communist. If it does it is difficult to see how communism can be prevented from spreading throughout Southeast Asia, into the Near East, down into Africa and into all of the so-called colonial areas of the world. 'The place to hold the line,' Potter said, 'is in India. It will be tragic for us if we let our differences with India obscure this fact.'"

Conservation On The March

A Weekly Column by
O. Edward Graves
Western Representative,
National Parks Association

A short while ago a friend sent me a copy of the Rocky Mountain Herald, published in Denver, "the oldest weekly in Colorado", as it calls itself. The first issue was published on May 1, 1860. A list of eight editors includes the name of Thomas Hornsby Ferril, who, using the nom de plume Childe Herald, is evidently the author of a column of Ideas and Comment.

Two paragraphs in a recent issue caught my attention. The first deals with the problem of the Echo Park Dam in Dinosaur National Monument, which was the subject of my last week's column. It is the most "fissionable" subject in the field of wilderness conservation, if I may use a newly coined word that is really expressive of the present emergency.

Mr. Ferril is speaking about the work that a friend of his, Alfred A. Knopf, well-known New York publisher, is doing to prevent the building of this dam, which would violate our long-established national parks policy. He says that Mr. Knopf is running his publishing business with one hand while he is slugging with the other to prevent the construction of the dam. He then quotes Mr. Knopf as follows: "Should this Echo Park project be authorized, not only will the scenic and recreational features of the national monument be destroyed, but an extremely dangerous precedent will have been created, through the employment of which, projects in other national monuments and even in the great national parks themselves, might be and probably would be authorized in time".

There seems to be a considerable question as to whether President

Eisenhower has had this matter brought to his personal attention. Many conservationists believe that he took the advice of people on his staff, when he recently recommended the dam to Congress, without knowing about the tremendous public disapproval that has been built up all over the country. It seems to be very difficult to get matters of this kind past the road blocks in the White House staff.

Mr. Ferril's second paragraph deals with the question of water conservation, which is of vital interest to the West and which is really broader than that of wilderness conservation, though rather closely related to it. In this paragraph Mr. Ferril expresses an idea that has occurred to too few Westerners. He states it in this way: "The indisputable fact that every drop of water out here must be hoarded invariably leads to the entirely fallacious belief that if we only had more water we'd all be better off. But what happens when we do get more water? We immediately overload the water supply with people and industries and, as far as the good life is concerned, everybody is a little worse off than before."

He ends by referring to what he humorously calls "Ferril's Law of the West" that "the more water you get, the less water there is to go around". This is a paradox that every reader of this column who is familiar with the West knows to be true. But what can we do about it? Population pressure is again "the villain in the case". Perhaps if the Chamber of Commerce boosters in the large cities would take a hint from the Carmel philosophy and stop trying to siphon more and more mobs of settlers into our semi-arid regions, we would all be better off in the end.

Easter Concert Set For Valley Bowl

Following a tradition established last year, a special concert will be held Easter Sunday afternoon in the outdoor Carmel Valley Bowl, located on the Edison Holt ranch.

This year's concert, which will be a benefit for the American Cancer Society, will star Lucille Norman, featured singer of radio and television, and the singing actor, John Boles. Also to appear on the program is the Russian faculty quartet from the Army Language School. Accompanying the soloists and contributing several orchestral selections will be the 60-piece Monterey County Symphony Orchestra, under the direction of Clifford Anderson.

The program will begin at 2:30 o'clock. The Carmel Valley Bowl can accommodate an audience of 15,000, and ample parking space is promised. Tickets for the concert are now on sale, or may be purchased the day of the concert.

Happy Easter news is the new ownership of N B FLOWERS, the ravishing little flower shop at Sixth and Lincoln streets which will continue, under the management of Ellen Lommel, to supply original flower arrangements for your parties, beautiful bouquets to brighten your grey days and corsages and floral gifts designed just for you, to express your personality and delight your friends. As Easter approaches, with all its attendant festivity, drop into the N B FLOWER SHOP and see Ellen Lommel's spring fresh ideas, or call her at 7-3950. As well as cut flowers, N B FLOWERS now has a magnificent selection of plants... always a fortunate gift inspiration. While you're there, notice the unusual invention in line and color displayed in such arrangements as this: frosty mauve and lemon ice carnations combined with eucalyptus leaves. You know that soft grey bloom they have? The whole thing might dissolve in snowflakes, like a fairy's kiss.

The Italian Sweater has become a byword for a new way of dressing, an easy graceful look. Designers like Simonetta Visconti and Veneziano use the sweater as a base for every sort of costume, from casual to gala, but always elegant, and like Schiaparelli's immortal little black dress the idea has been an international success. The best dressed women of the world appear on the rocky shores of Capri in cocoa brown confections that match their Mediterranean sunbans and float down the Grand Canal to the biggest ball of the Venice season with drifts of knitted foam wrapping their shoulders. HARRIET DUNCAN devotes an entire wall in her Sixth Street shop to a complete collection of Italian sweaters by Luisa Spagnoli of Perugia that are perfectly suited to our Carmel way of life. There are classic cardigans and unique jacket sweaters with beautifully detailed collars, short and long lengths, all sorts of sleeves, including the smart new three-quarter ones, pullovers to wear with suits or evening skirts. Most exciting are the hundred lovely colors. Yellows ranging from pale chartreuse to deepest caramel, shell pinks, powder pinks and shrimp pinks shimmer against mauves and scarlets. There are blues in all the soft tints of the Italian sky (a Parma violet, the true color of a bouquet you'd find in the flower market at Piazza di Spagna), Seafoam and Jade green (and a green like the pines of Rome). A mink brown, the pale, rare, sort of mink, these are only a few of the radiant colors that will remind you of the palette of a master painter. And this is no coincidence for HARRIET DUNCAN believes in relating everything in a wardrobe just as an artist relates his colors, combining and contrasting them to create a picture of harmony and grace. To match her Italian sweaters HARRIET DUNCAN has especially dyed full swirling skirts of Strook wool; and narrow sheath skirts with self belts and pockets, lined of course for perfect fit. Dyed to match, too, are banks of chiffon scarves and glossy leather accessories. The sweaters are priced from 14.95 and Italian Angora cardigans, as fluffy and warm as little fur jackets are 26.95 at HARRIET DUNCAN.

Remember the pink, yellow and mint green cream wafers you had as a child? Delectable morsels that melt as you taste them. You can find them again at THE HOUSE OF HANSEL AND GRETEL on Sixth Street between Lincoln and Dolores and this is the only shop on the Peninsula that makes these Easter delights exactly as you had them at your first real party. Remember to get some for your favorite child! Eighty cents the pound.

No doubt you've admired those brilliant cotton Navajo dresses worn by an occasional fair visitor from New Mexico. The exotic colors and pleated squaw skirts often appear in Vogue and Harper's Bazaar. But did you know that there's a shop in Carmel devoted to clothes from New Mexico and Arizona? THE SQUAW SHOP on Sixth Street between Lincoln and San Carlos has the most fabulous Squaw dresses I've ever seen, heavy with gold and silver embroidery with skirts that are yards and yards of stiffly pleated heavy cotton, solid enough to stand alone, in museum piece colors.

These are exclusives, designed by Ricki of Phoenix and worthy of a grand occasion. For everyday wear, in town and on the beach, THE SQUAW SHOP has dozens and dozens of the skirts, made of bright calicos, no two alike, and trimmed with rows of ric-rac, to wash in the washer and wind round a broomstick to dry in pleats. You'll live in them all season, and they are only 6.95, so you'll want several! There are matching blouses and gay moscasins in every color at THE SQUAW SHOP.

People have a way of wrapping up precious bits of damaged china and hiding them away for years because they realize the uselessness of the ordinary repair jobs that fall apart after one or two washings. Understandably one hates to entrust a loved possession to the tender mercies of the usual repairman. ARLIN C. PETERSEN who has a service called ANTIQUE ART RESTORING at Fifth Street between Mission and Junipero is someone you CAN trust. People send him their dearest treasures from all over the county because they have found that his repairing (he uses no plaster, is actually permanent, the piece is as strong as before and can really be used. In his shop you'll see Wedgewood, Dresden, jades and Chinese Lacquers being carefully and lovingly restored, as well as things that the owners were simply too fond of to give up. And if you have a vase or statuette or candlestick you think would make a handsome lamp, ANTIQUE ART RESTORING will mount and electrify it for you.

For every girl you know who has a sweater, a tiny candy-striped bandbox contains jewels (pearls, jet, sequins and bugle beads) wool, and a lining with the pattern printed right on it for a jeweled collar to make herself. Those jeweled collars have a way of turning up only on fifty dollar sweaters but this charming make-it-yourself set costs from one to four dollars depending on the style you choose. Don't miss it! Ask too, to see KAY'S miracle snap-on aprons, again to make yourself, in about three minutes time and voila! no more apron tying.

MPC CAMPUS NEWS

By Allene Knight

This is the last day of school for one week. Classes will resume on April 19, along with the other Peninsula schools.

The blood drive held at MPC on Monday, March 29, was a big success. Monterey donated 57 pints, whereas Hartnell was able to donate only 30 pints, so MPC wins the trophy again.

Volleyball tournaments for the men and for the women are going on each noon. Also, a team of girls and a mixed team went to Hartnell on Thursday to compete against them. Those going from Carmel were Allene Petty, Doris Konrad, and Myrna Sutton.

The Executive Council attended a student government conference in San Diego on Thursday, Friday and Saturday of last week. Those who made the trip were Mel Bowen, president; Jane Lowrey, vice-president; Lorraine Bispo, secretary; Ed Lee, commissioner of

Wharf Puts Together Difficult Williams Play Handily With Warshawsky Starring As Lead

BY ELIZABETH BLAIR

Last Friday night the Wharf Theatre opened a four week run of Tennessee Williams' A Streetcar Named Desire, the 1947-48 winner of the Pulitzer Prize and the Drama Critics Circle Award. It is a tribute for any theatre group to attempt this powerful, intense play, for the play itself poses most difficult casting, directing, and staging problems. The Wharf Players met these problems admirably.

Ruth Warshawsky, in the role of Blanche DuBois, captured, for the most part, the decadent gentility, the fluttering moth-like qualities, the sadness that is Blanche. The role is one of the most difficult to portray. Mrs. Warshawsky's scene where she explains her past to Mitch, her first genteel suitor in a long, long line of questionable suitors, was finely wrought, delicately done and a tribute to her ability to turn a difficult and long speech into an exciting bit of theatre.

There was fine support, too, from Bill Wintersole. As Stanley Kowalski, he grasped for an interpretation that was his own and not an imitation of other Stanleys who have gone before him on other stages. Although his characterization seemed a little jerky at times, he was always the brutal and blatant Kowalski that the playwright meant for him to be.

An excellent cast aided generously in the development of the tragic overtones which are so much a part of this Williams play. Especially commendable was George Gordon's characterization of Mitch, a difficult role in contrast to the brutality of Stanley and one that isn't easy to use in the development of a believable character. With a fine voice and probably the best achieved accent, Gordon sustained his characterization throughout the play.

Jo Wellborn, as Stella, carefully shadowed her interpretation in order to show contrast between Blanche and Stella. If any criticism is justified it would not be due to Miss Wellborn's interpretation of the role, but her meticulously starched and pressed clothes which frequently distracted from the mood and setting of the play as a whole.

Leon Altneu as Steve, with very few lines, did much more than one would think possible to establish mood and impression. A fine job well done. And Dee Olivetti as the sympathetic Eunice handled a minor role well. Also in the cast were Audrey Meader as the Nurse, Harry Dinwiddie as the Doctor, Jack Kissell, James Lyon, and Lucille Kiester. All contributed to the action and mood of the play.

Lighting was excellently done, as it usually is at the Wharf under the supervision of Walt Scott. Nick LeFeuvre made remarkable improvements in his stage set over the setting used for the original Broadway production. With the entrance to the Kowalski apartment at the back of the stage instead of stage right, he accomplished a broader playing area. This gave fluidity of movement to the entire performance.

Also commendable was the fact that the time between blackouts was short; changes were made quickly and quietly, and most details were handled in a completely professional manner.

A flaw fairly obvious in the performance as a whole was the feeling that the heat and sweat of the Kowalski apartment rarely reached across to the audience, in spite of the dialogue concerned with it. This particular mood factor is an integral part of Blanche's complete disintegration during the progress of the play.

A Streetcar Named Desire is an effective play. It is intense, sordid, brutal, and sad, but it is a powerful play, and it should be seen. Tom Brock and Bob Carson, co-directors of the play, have produced a believable and fine interpretation.

Mental Health Play Tryouts Tomorrow

Tryouts for a one-act play entitled My Name is Legion, to be produced in May under the auspices of the Mental Health Society of Monterey County, will be held tomorrow afternoon at 2:00 o'clock at the Carmel High School auditorium.

Jack Kissell, who will direct the production, states that there are 13 male parts open in the play, and all interested are invited to appear for tomorrow's tryouts.

My Name is Legion was specially adapted for the National Association for Mental Health from the best-selling book, A Mind That Found Itself, by Clifford Beers. It will be given three performances in Monterey County—May 13 in Monterey, May 14 in Carmel, and May 15 in Salinas—in connection with Mental Health Week.

Soiree Musicale Causerie Francaise

Dans une atmosphere charmante, la Causerie Francaise s'est reunie vendredi dernier au Golden Bough Players Circle, la jolie salle etant decoree pour l'occasion de belles affiches francaises. On se serait presque cru a Paris.

Le Tout-Carmel de la musique, membres et amis de la Causerie Francaise, avaient tenu a rendre hommage a la virtuose du piano Marjorie Wurzmahn qui, a la demande generale, a repete son programme de l'annee derniere. Madame Wurzmahn a debute par un petit apercu en Francais sur les compositeurs les plus importants du dix-septieme et du dix-huitieme siecles, tels que Couperin, Rameau et Daquin; et ensuite sur les modernes tels que Debussy, Poulenc, Satie et Ravel.

Cet expose a montre sa connaissance parfaite de la langue et sa clarte de l'expression. Ce programme harmonieusement concu montrait a l'envie le talent de l'artiste, l'intelligence de son jeu, son doigtier extraordinaire, son attaque franche, la souplesse de son rythme et sa magnifique technique.

Brouillards, Voiles, et Ce qu'a dit le Vent d'Ouest de Debussy ont invoque la douce tristesse des remiscences montrant ainsi la grande sensibilite de l'artiste. Longuement applaudie, Madame Wurzmahn a vraiment maintenu la reputation de la musique francaise!

La soiree musicale etant terminee, Monsieur Bissantz, le president, a felicite au nom de la Causerie Francaise Monsieur et Madame Paul Le Bouleux, arrives recemment de Chantilly et qui devaient celebrer leur noce d'or le vendredi suivant. Il a presente a chacun d'eux une carte de membre honoraire et une jolie plante fleurie a Madame Le Bouleux.

A la demande du president, mais un peu pris au depourvu, Monsieur Le Bouleux a pris la parole. Il n'oubliera jamais la Peninsule, sa "seconde patrie," qui l'a si bien recue, et al cordialite et la gentillesse des americains.

Il a explique, en plaisantant, qu'en entrant aux Etats Unis il a promis qu'il serait un bon citoyen, qu'il ne ferait aucun mal a son pays adoptif, et qu'il n'assassinerait pas le president de la republique—et, dit-il, "Je ne le ferai pas!"

Et, ajouta-t-il, ne sachant pas un mot d'Anglais et ayant eu quelques difficultes a prononcer l'Anglais, il a maintenant recours au dessin pour se faire comprendre.

Les Le Bouleux, ne s'attendant guere a une telle reception, etaient tres emus de tant d'affectueuse spontaneite. La soiree s'est ainsi terminee gaiement, d'une maniere charmante et tres intime.

Beautiful Copenhagen

(During Mrs. Sisson's trip to Europe last summer the Pine Cone printed a number of her letters. Now that she has returned to Carmel, she will complete the report of her impressions.)

PART IV

BY ASTRID SISSON

The citizens of Copenhagen are proud of the manner in which life has been made secure for their old people. Pensioners may continue to live in their own homes, with their relatives, or in apartments and flats in Old Peoples' Town where comfortable and wellheated housing may be had for 10% of the pension, or about $5.00 for room, kitchen and bath. If two people share the flat, an extra room is allowed, and the price is increased by 10.00 kroner or about $1.50. These are monthly rents. Should the pensioner prefer more of a hotel existence, he withholds a small sum for spending money, and the rest provides him with a well-furnished room, well-heated, and comparing favorably with our medium priced hotel rooms. The meals are served as they would be in a hotel dining room, at individual tables or at larger tables should that be preferred. Afternoon coffee is served in the rooms, and it goes without saying that the food is well-prepared and plentiful, and the rooms are kept spic and span. I made calls with friends on people living in both types of housing, and found an air of warmth and comfort in both.

Driving about Copenhagen, we came to rows of nice looking well-kept flats, distinguishable from other buildings by a delightful basrelief over each entrance depicting children at play. This was the housing built for families with many children.

Much thought had gone into the planning of these buildings, I was told, being built as they were, with the idea of making housekeeping and child care as easy as possible in a city where the climate compels the children to stay indoors for days during the winter. These flats are in great demand. The rent is a reasonable 45.00 kroner a month, about $7.00. A family with four children is eligible for the housing, and with the birth of each new child, a deduction of 15.00 kroner a month is automatic, until the family with seven children lives rent free.

The Danes are a proud and independent people, so it was not easy to dislodge them from the idea that with the acceptance of these community supplied helps, they would lose independence and dignity. The government was aware of this, and tried to find means to make these innovations acceptable, without creating the disastrous effect in the people of receiving charity. Several plans were tried, but the Danes were not convinced, and to begin with did without rather than accept the help offered by the government.

The work of influencing public opinion was then begun, and became a lesson in understanding, in patience, and thoroughness which finally brought notable success.

Now pensions and public housing are not only accepted but also spoken of openly without embarrassment and annoyance by those who receive it. The reward has been rich — in healthy, beautiful children, and in happy care-free old people, and for the old it has created a fusing of dignified living with secure living.

Of late years emigration from the Scandinavian countries to the United States has dwindled. All of these countries have similar securities for young and old, with the added Oslo Breakfast for the children.

Not far from the children's housing are a number of large apartment houses being built, or just finished (this was last Fall). The Danes believe that stairs and elevators are the most expensive parts of large buildings, so each two of these up-to-the-minute apartment buildings had common stair and elevator service; those I saw were enclosed in some transparent material and

EASTER GARDEN

*The rain-drops twinkle in the live-oak leaves,
The morning tree is full of busy birds.
With penetrating power the sunlight weaves
Among the sombre boughs its golden words.*

*Peace in this garden is self-evident . . .
Its finger-tips tune upwards to the sky—
Such was our dwelling-place as it was meant
Before we tore its hidden core awry.*

*The sky has drowned in blueness all its stars,
The April grass is resolute though thin—
The brother pines stand true and parallel.
Heal now this world of self-inflicted scars
With strong cool thoughts effective from within,
And be for peace a shining citadel.*

—DANIEL HAWTHORNE.

THE TREES OF KWAJALEIN ATOLL

*The trees saw and they told me:
They came in tidal waves
Of armoured whales
From every direction—
Frothing, snarling, spouting smoke
And belching destruction.
They came as flocks of steel condors—
Growling, whistling through the sky,
Coughing fire, and dropping
Violent death.*

*We who stand are few—
Old, haggard, infirm;
Short of leaves and fruit,
And short of limbs.
But we are enough.
We few will regain our strength
And propagate our species
Over the barren face of our isle.
Yes, we, the trees, saw and felt
And sacrificed. But we are grateful.
For now—as never before—
Our roots are in free soil.*

—E. W. NORTHACRE.

LEGACY

*Leave me a mountain, deep in chaparral,
Lifting in morning haze above the trail,
Where linnets call, unseen and unafraid,
Among the lilacs, lavender and frail.*

*Leave me a home in California hills
Where grey cliffs ramble down to meet the sea—
Stopping along the way to dream a bit
By hidden springs and gnarled and ancient trees.*

*Leave me your love of valleys, warm with sun,
Cradling their orchards in the hills' soft fold—
And, handed down your cup so beauty-filled,
I'll have no wish for legacy of gold!*

placed where the buildings met, corner to corner.

On our slow drives about the city to look for the unusual, we saw a number of typical Copenhagen chimney sweeps, dressed in top hat, and carrying the tools of their trade on the back, while jauntily riding a bicycle, and usually giving a smile and a wave of the hand to the astonished tourist.

We also saw what the Danes call sladre, gossip-windows, with adjustable mirrors attached outside to the window frames, making it possible to watch the comings and goings of neighbors up and down the street, and providing fascinating entertainment for invalids and children.

To see the Grundtvig Memorial Church is a must. The church was built as a memorial to N. F. S. Grundtvig, Danish psalmist and founder of the Danish high school, which is the pattern for high schools in all the Scandinavian countries. The church was designed and the building of it supervised by architect P. V. Jensen Klint, but all of the actual work was done by six bricklayers who completed the church in twenty years. The building material is yellow brick, and the beauty achieved with this humble material is astonishing. The exquisite Gothic arches create an impression of enormous height, of grace and lace-like frailty. From a distance the church looks like a giant organ, the vertical apertures in the tower creating this impression. The new homes, built nearby since the church was started, have been given some of the outward architectural characteristics of the church.

Denmark is so tiny that motorbus tours can be taken from Copenhagen to almost any part of the country; the sightseers explore what interests them, and return to Copenhagen the same day. Two of these tours are very rewarding. The full-day South Zealand tour, and the full-day North Zealand tour. I took both, and found the guides well-informed and eager to answer questions. A tour to the Hans Christian Andersen country may be of interest, too. The tour stops long enough in Odense, the author's birthplace, to give the visitor ample time to visit Andersen's home, which now is a museum, and browse through the streets of the little village where he spent his childhood.

The North Zealand tour includes a long stop at Kronborg Castle, best known to English-speaking peoples as Elsinor, the home of Shakespeare's Hamlet. In the great court-yard around which the castle is built, Hamlet is played every summer, often by actor-visitors from other countries. The castle is built on an outjutting of land at Helsingør, and is, like all old Danish castles, protected by moats. The castle has a number of exquisite rooms. The Knights' Hall and the castle church tops them all. Holger Danske, a legendary figure, is supposed to be asleep in a dungeon beneath the castle, and here in an underground passage, a large statue of him may be seen. The legend says should Denmark ever be in grave peril, the statue will come to life and rid the country of its enemies.

Other places of note visited on this tour were Sorgenfri (Sorrowfree) Palace at Lyngby, which is the winter residence of Prince Knud, also Fredriksborg Castle at Hillerød, which now is a national museum. At this castle we saw what is said to be the world's most extensive collection of coat-of-arms, including those of our own past Presidents and President Eisenhower.

Fredensborg Palace, which already has been mentioned as the summer residence of the present Royal Family, was visited too, as was Hvidovre Palace where Empress Dagmar lived after her return to Denmark from Russia in 1918.

On the South Zealand tour the old coast town of Køge was visited which is famous for its timbered houses, some of them 700 years old. None of these lovely old buildings was open to the public. Some of the timbers were elaborately carved. Such carvings were on the facades only, we were told. Their richness indicated the wealth of the owner. One had carved over the entrance:

P.T.-A. Officers Elected

The membership of the Carmel Parent-Teacher Association unequivocally followed the recommendations of its nominating committee in the election of new officers at its general meeting Tuesday afternoon.

Mrs. Fred Diefendorf was unanimously elected to her second term as president of the association. Mrs. Roderick Clayton is executive vice-president; Mrs. Eugene Harrah, corresponding secretary; Mrs. William Bauer, recording secretary; and Mrs. Ernest Gatcomb, treasurer.

Under the newly revised P.T.-A. by-laws, five vice-presidents were elected, one to represent each school in the Carmel district. They are: Mr. and Mrs. Wendell Redding, Carmel High; Mrs. Reed Pollock, Woods; Mrs. Eben Whittlesey, River; Mrs. Robert Read, Bay School. Mrs. Diefendorf will represent Sunset School.

Installation of the new officers was performed by Mrs. Florence Lockwood, second grade teacher at Sunset. A veteran of 25 years' teaching in Carmel, Mrs. Lockwood has announced her retirement as of this June. Mrs. Fillmore Gray spoke for the P.T.-A. membership in honoring Mrs. Lockwood and giving appreciation of her long service here, and presented her with an orchid corsage on behalf of the group.

Following the election, members were entertained with a lively and amusing skit called The Egg and the P.T.-A., which concerned the forthcoming P.T.-A.-Girls' League Carnival and reached a hilarious climax with the breaking of an egg (raw and real) over the head of small Mike O'Shea, who beamed benignly throughout the operation. The skit was presented by a group of children from Carmel Highlands, under the direction of Mrs. Richard Lofton and Mrs. Russell Williams.

Tuesday's meeting being the last before next fall, delegates were announced for the forthcoming P.T.-A. convention. They are Mrs. Roderick Clayton, with Mrs. Diefendorf as alternate, and Mrs. Wendell Redding, who will attend the one-day high school session only.

Forest Theater Guild Affairs

The board of directors of the Forest Theater Guild last week appointed Victor Velissaratos to serve as president of the Guild following the suggestion of former president Cole Weston. Weston found his business activities, plus the lack of a telephone, made his position as president somewhat difficult to handle.

The board also appointed Miss Elizabeth M. Niles to the position of treasurer, in addition to her job as recording secretary. The complete board of directors now lists Velissaratos as president, Hazel McLellan and Milton Stitt, vice-presidents; Miss Niles, recording secretary-treasurer; Blanche Tolmie, corresponding secretary. The six directors-at-large are Suzanne Armstrong, Erika Franke, Barbara Horder West, Cole Weston, Jean Elsen and Jack James.

Monterey Peninsula Audubon Society has a colored motion picture of unusual interest for next Tuesday evening's Screen Tour, in Sunset Auditorium at 8:00 o'clock. The vice-president of the National Audubon Society, Carl W. Buchheister, shown above, will take the audience vicariously to Pastures of the Sea.

Sea birdlife will be shown: turnstones, puffins, razor-bill auks and a sandpiper family. The amazing journeys of the Arctic tern will be followed. Carl Buchheister will introduce a new field of adventure to be explored however—as it is already attracting youthful explorers offshore around this peninsula—down in the green abyss of bays and inlets.

When school holidays begin this summer, it will doubtless be no longer unusual to see sturdy lads, and perhaps girls, still wearing swim suits, but further adorned with flippers and artificial gills, and with oxygen tanks where Sierra Club hikers would be carrying haversacks. Where the mountain climber would have an alpenstock, the diver into pastures of the sea is armed with spear or miniature harpoon gun.

Cubs in Land of Oz

Carmel Cub Pack 48 had its monthly meeting last week, highlight of which was entertainment based on the theme, The Land of Oz. Mrs. Hill's Den 3 displayed a model showing how they thought the Emerald City might look. Mrs. Espenshade's Den 4 put on a Wizard's Magic Show, while Mrs. Bishop's Den 2 presented an act from the play The Wizard of Oz, which won them the honor banner for the month.

In a candlelight ceremony, achievement awards were presented by Assistant Cubmaster Jack Clayton to the following Cubs: Lynden Mahrt, Craig Neikirk, Kip Dunning, Michael Ross and Bill Hill.

Legion Awards Meeting

As expected, Jim Kelsey walked away with virtually every award in the book at the annual membership meeting of Carmel Post 512, American Legion, at Legion Hall Monday evening.

In addition to receiving the post's first life membership, Kelsey took the Golden Bear Award (for bringing in five or more renewals or new members during the last membership drive), the Heart Award (10 or more members), the Door Knockers' Award (25 or more), the Go-Getters' Award (50 or more), and finally, a gold-plated Century Award (his fifth) for 100 or more members. Kelsey's box score last year was 200 renewals and 18 new members—probably a record for any individual Legion member in the state.

Golden Bear Awards were also made to Post Commander Jim Sutherland, Sven Andersen, Art Johnson, and Lee Winslow. Presentations were made by Dean Harper of Gonzales, 28th District Commander.

ANNUAL WORLD AFFAIRS CONFERENCE AT ASILOMAR

The eighth annual World Affairs Conference will be held the last weekend in April at Asilomar. The conference, held under the auspices of the World Affairs Council of Northern California, will consider the general subject of Hot Issues of the Cold Peace: Areas of Friction with the Communist World.

Keynote speech on opening night, April 23, will be given by Ernest A. Gross, who served for more than two years as deputy United States representative to the United Nations, with rank of ambassador. Economic frictions between the West and Communism will be discussed by Kenneth R. Hansen of the Foreign Operations Administration. Allen E. Charles, San Francisco lawyer and civic leader, is chairman for the conference, which will be open to the public.

Peggy Glaser Engaged

An August wedding is planned by Peggy Glaser of Pebble Beach and John W. Winnett, Jr., of San Francisco, whose engagement was announced Saturday by the bride-elect's parents, Mr. and Mrs. James M. R. Glaser, at a tea held at their home in Pebble Beach.

Peggy was graduated from Douglas School and attended Mills College. An accomplished equestrienne, she has appeared in numerous shows and competitions and has won honors all along the West Coast.

The future benedict is the son of Mrs. Paul Barrelet de Ricou of Paris, and the grandson of P. G. Winnett of Los Angeles. Educated in France, he attended the Ecole de Saumur and during World War II served on General Eisenhower's SHAPE staff. For the past nine years he has represented the United States in international horse shows, and last year rode in the world's championships in Paris.

Following their wedding, the couple plan to live in New York.

Mrs. Brown Has 95th Birthday

Mrs. Alice Brown was 95 years old last weekend — an occasion which was celebrated with a family party Sunday afternoon given by her daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Paul McKinstry, with whom Mrs. Brown makes her home here.

Taking a lively pleasure in the event, Mrs. Brown was escorted to the place of honor at a table beautifully decorated with spring lilac, tulips and roses. After the festive turkey dinner, she cut the first slice from a birthday cake ornamented with flowers and sugar birds, and lit with candles—one for each 30 years.

Present for the occasion, in addition to the guest of honor and the McKinstry's, were Mrs. Brown's son, E. H. Brown, and his wife from Arroyo Seco, and son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Wellwood of San Jose. Only "non-family" guest was Miss Nell Emery of Monterey, who is 92 years old herself and wondered what it felt like to be 95!

Party for Mrs. Kelb

Mrs. Franziska Kelb of San Francisco is spending her usual spring holiday with her nephew Adolf Lafrenz at his home, Trade Winds, at San Antonio and Eighth streets. Guests present to wish her a happy birthday were Mr. and Mrs. Herman Wertsch, Mr. and Mrs. John Ferber of San Francisco, Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Mason of Sacramento, Mrs. Mar-bod Dannenberg of Los Angeles, Mr. and Mrs. Harley Stivers, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Hudder of Carmel Valley, Miss Hallie Samson and Mrs. Jean Booth.

Leave for Eastern Tour

Mrs. Helen Levinson and Mrs. Josephine Newmark leave today for Chicago, the first stop in what is to be a two-months' tour of the Eastern United States and Canada.

The Carmel women will be accompanied by a mutual friend, Mrs. Aetna Carpenter of San Mateo. After traveling to Chicago by rail, Mrs. Carpenter plans to take delivery on a new car and the trio will drive on to New York, Boston and points north.

The group plan to return to the Peninsula in time for the expected arrival of Mrs. Levinson's second grandchild: the parents, Mr. and Mrs. Howard Levinson, say it'll be around the end of June.

Introducing Celia

Mr. and Mrs. Peter Hawks introduced their five-day-old daughter to her new home on Wednesday, a happy occasion for all concerned and a cause of huge excitement to the baby's two sisters: Jamin, three, and Kate, 14 months.

The new baby made her debut Saturday at Peninsula Community Hospital, and she's been named Celia Ward Hawks. Her paternal grandparents are Mrs. Athole Hawks of Beverly Hills and Howard Hawks, currently in Europe. Maternal grandmother is Mrs. Rex Ryan, who just completed a visit here, unfortunately departing just before Celia's arrival. However, Mrs. Ryan expects to stop here again this summer for a look at her new granddaughter.

Toastmasters Install Officers

Richard Catlin, local realtor, was installed as new president of the Carmel Toastmaster's Club at La Playa Hotel Monday night.

The installation ceremonies followed dinner. Ruth McElroy and pianist William Lindsay entertained with comedy stunts and music.

Besides Catlin, new officers include: vice-president, Jerry Giarantana; deputy governor, Rollo Payne; secretary-treasurer, Hugh Smith; educational director, Victor Velissaratos, and sergeant-at-arms, Robert McDonald.

President Catlin appointed Howell Armor, program chairman, and Fred Diefendorf, publicity chairman.

Outgoing president, Rollo Payne, presided. Armor served as toastmaster with the keynote Education. Victor Velissaratos was table topics master. Speakers included Eben Whitlesey, Leo Tanous, Tom Montgomery and Stanley Ewig.

Donnellys Give Cocktail Party

In honor of several out-of-town friends here for the races, Mr. and Mrs. William Donnelly will entertain with a cocktail party this evening. Among their guests will be Mr. and Mrs. A. W. B. Vincent of Saratoga, and Mr. and Mrs. Glendon H. Roberts and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Kemer—the two latter couples having come all the way from Detroit expressly for the races. Other guests will include Mr. and Mrs. Shreve M. Archer and their weekend houseguests, Mr. and Mrs. R. R. Winters of Hillsborough (Mr. Archer's sister and brother-in-law.)

Honoring French Visitors

Following the Concours d'Elegance tomorrow afternoon, Mr. and Mrs. Bob Baird are giving a cocktail party in honor of several out-of-town visitors here for the road races. Guest of honor will be M. F. Peter of the French Consulate-General in San Francisco, and Francois Crouzet of Paris, who will drive his Panhard DB in the Pebble Beach Cup Sunday.

Other guests will include Mr. and Mrs. R. G. Le Vaux, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Perreault and Mr. and Mrs. Bob Wood of Los Angeles, Frank Johnson of Berkeley and local drivers Bert Taylor and J. P. Kunstle, whose pit at the races will be identifiable by the Bairds' red-and-white Volkswagen bus la-

Seventh Grade Dance Party

Some fifty kids, representing Sunset School's three seventh grade classes, got together Saturday night for an informal dance party, held at the home of Mrs. Mollie Espenshade on Carmel Point.

Planners and hostesses for the seventh grade party were Sally Bishop and Marjorie Haak, who organized the various dances and arranged for the serving of punch and cookies during the evening. Invited as chaperons were Mrs. Hiram Bishop, Mrs. Howard Haak and Mr. and Mrs. James Tyson.

April Fool's Party

April Fool's Day provided Mr. and Mrs. Mark Raggett with a mildly zany party last Thursday evening, planned jointly by Mrs. Rod Wilson and Mrs. Charles McHarry.

It began with the Raggetts unsuspectingly arriving at the McHarrys' home for a pre-arranged dinner date, only to find a note on the door: "April Fools—Dinner at Wilsons". Going along with the gag, the Raggetts proceeded as directed—the surprise coming in when, on their arrival at the Wilsons, they found themselves the honor guests at a full-scale party. Further April foolishness involved the other guests appearing in a raffish array of funny clothes, while the Raggetts stood out like well-manicured thumbs in their proper dinner attire.

Occasion for the whole affair was the Raggetts' impending departure, the latter part of this month, for a vacation in the East. Their two sons will accompany them on the holiday, high point of which will be a visit in New York City.

Third Daughter for Norwicks

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Norwick can now boast a trilogy of bonny daughters—the youngest of whom was born last Thursday. Her name is Naomi Jean, and she holds the dubious distinction of being the only April Fool's baby to arrive at Peninsula Community Hospital.

Naomi Jean, who weighed in at eight pounds, three ounces, is the granddaughter of Dr. and Mrs. J. C. Lerner of Pennsylvania and Mrs. Reba Norwick, who is visiting her son and daughter-in-law and their family here.

MADONNA PAINTINGS

A special exhibition of paintings on the theme of the Madonna will be on display the first two weeks in May at the Carmel Art Gallery.

The show, featuring works in several media by artist members, is in observation of the Marian Year and will coincide with the convening of the Marian Congress here the first week in May.

The Marian Year celebrates the 100th anniversary of the proclamation by the Pope of the dogma of the Immaculate Conception.

Mrs. Sibley Talks To Church Group On Conditions Abroad

Mrs. Harper Sibley, of Rochester, New York, is one of the outstanding women in American church leadership. For years she was the president of United Church Women, and her influence is world-wide. It was great good fortune for the Peninsula Council of Church Women to have her speak in the parish hall of All Saints Church on Friday afternoon. Mrs. Sibley and her husband went to the Orient last spring and to Europe in the summer, and her address was a sparkling report of social conditions and especially of religious work in many countries.

Mrs. Sibley spoke with appreciation of the people who have somehow escaped from behind the iron curtain. One young woman whom she saw directing and acting in a play had escaped under bags of coal in a truck. Especially impressive were the results of Radio Free Europe. There are indications of strong forces, even behind the iron curtain, that will tell against the now-dominant Communism. Mrs. Sibley emphasized that in Germany the only organization that functions in both the east and west zones is the Christian church. As to her friends in West Germany, she found that they were less afraid of communism within their country than of neo-Nazism. All felt the necessity for a strong confederation of Western Europe.

In discussing the Asiatic countries, she paid tribute to the famous agricultural missionary, Dr. Sam Higginbotham, whose school at Allahabad is to receive a $950,000 building from the Ford Foundation. She told of an interesting interview with the Emperor and Empress of Japan, who showed intelligent appreciation for the work of the Y.M.C.A. and a real sympathy for the people of the Philippines.

Mrs. Sibley is so vigorous a public speaker that it is hard to realize that she is really the mother of six children, the grandmother of nineteen, and she even has one great-grandchild.

Lawrence Up For Hearing Today On Burglary Charge

Preliminary hearings will be held this morning before Judge Ray Baugh in the case of Donald Byrne Lawrence, who is charged with having entered and burglarized a Carmel jewelry store, early Tuesday morning.

Lawrence was captured by Sgt. Earl Wermuth shortly after 3:20 o'clock Tuesday morning.

According to the report of Carmel police, Lawrence shattered the plate glass window of The House That Jack Built with a brick, then made off with several watches valued at approximately $900. The crash set off a burglar alarm which woke Bayard Wiest, who lives adjacent to the jewelry store; Wiest promptly alerted police, and Sgt. Earl Wermuth, who was cruising down Ocean Avenue, hurried to the scene. After a short chase, Lawrence surrendered to Wermuth near the corner of Ocean and San Carlos. The watches were recovered.

Lawrence has a long record of previous burglaries, both here and elsewhere, and has served several stretches in state prison.

Anna Oliver

Mrs. Anna McGuire Oliver, who had made her home here with her daughter, Miss Marie Oliver, for the past year and a half, died Tuesday morning in a local hospital following a brief illness. She was 80.

She was born December 10, 1873, in Bethany, Illinois, and spent many years in New York before establishing her permanent home in Claremont, California, where she was a member of Claremont Community Church and PEO Sisterhood.

In addition to her daughter, she leaves three sons, Parke Oliver of Whittier, Morris Oliver of Sacramento and James Oliver of Bishop; a sister, Mrs. James H. Parke of Pacific Grove; and five grandchildren. Funeral services will be held today in Pomona.

Plans Shaping Up
For PTA Carnival

Carnival is in the air! A combined meeting of the chairmen of the PTA and Girls' League showed how well plans are shaping up for the Carmel Scholarship Carnival to be held on May 1 at the High School. The girls have wonderful plans for fun, games and gaiety at their numerous booths dotting the lawn and in the gym. The PTA will lure eager buyers with attractive displays of handmade needlecraft, flowers and plants, and good things to eat at the cake and candy and hot luncheon booths.

Carnival atmosphere will start with a parade through town, colorful and gay with clowns and bands and bikes and cars cleverly decorated. (There will be prizes for the prettiest, funniest, etc.)

For the convenience of those who may need transportation there will be busses running regularly throughout the day from the Plaza (opposite the Carmel Theatre) to the High School. An added convenience this year will be a parcel check stand where purchases may be parked for a small fee leaving the unburdened shopper free to roam in comfort.

Eye-catching groups of youngsters, prettily costumed, will rove the grounds, some playing band music and others folk-dancing.

Of interest to all, and offering a change of pace, will be the exhibits in the classrooms of student work and projects.

This Carnival is an event of mutual benefit to the community and the PTA and Scholarship Funds. It aids the latter by providing necessary funds, and at the same time the people of the community have a lot of fun and a chance to pick up some wonderful buys at reasonable prices.

Valloe Nunnery, sometimes called Valloe Castle, is an old Renaissance mansion which for more than two hundred years has been a home for old maiden ladies of noble birth. The surrounding park, through which we drove, was beautiful. Vennetofte Nunnery, which is also a home for old noble ladies, was visited too. The ladies who spend their declining years here must belong to the three highest ranks of nobility.

The Time Has Come.

By Kippy Stuart

Last year, at this time, the Pine Cone published in this column a letter from Colonel Philip Schneeberger on what to do when the leaf-miners make their spring march on your cinerarias. It was so good, it deserves a repeat performance. Here it is:

Last fall my cinerarias were in trouble and big. Their blaze of deep-toned glory was in a sad decline, their leaves fast becoming anemic. As if governed by one impulse, they started taking on interesting lacy patterns on each leaf—interesting until the leaves yellowed and wilted. My Oriental gardener admitted frustration of a high order. The intriguing patterns had showed up in other floral paradises under his care, had not yielded to reason, and he had even torn out hundreds of plants by their roots.

I looked through the literature and got some good clues. Naturally you know that the difficulty was those pesky leaf-miners. Being somewhat of the high-domed type, I made a study of the life cycle of the little beasties, and with that study I believe I have a method of control. So I pass on to you something which is doubtless the oldest sort of stuff for one of your entomological enthusiasms.

The little brat starts out life as a minute, capsule-like white egg which you can just about make out against a dark background if you have had a good night's sleep. Soon he escapes from this in the form of a wee worm that burrows with impish cleverness a tunnel between layers of the leaf, eating his way with the appetite of a sophomore as he goes, and leaving those aforesaid patterns. And he grows as he eats his chlorophyll of vitamins, and when the glutton gets to be about a quarter-inch long and plenty fat, he slows down, builds him a water-proof cocoon about him, curls up and takes a sizable nap.

When our gluttonous little critter wakes up, lo, he finds himself a black wasp-like affair about an eighth-inch long and seems interested in gorging upon all the aphids in the neighborhood. But his joie de vivre goes beyond this, for he shortly makes the acquaintance of a she wasp-like critter and mating seems to be the order of the day. For soon she starts placing the tiny eggs where her progeny will have a plentiful ration for their young lives.

I tried out a few dusts and sprays and finally hit upon Ortho Isotax Plant Spray with Lindane (no adv.), and have gotten results with a four-teaspoon to a gallon solution. It doesn't seem to do anything to the eggs or to the water-proof cocoon. But it does put the quietus upon the worms in their porous tunnels. After treatment the sickly plants take heart again, and although they lose their badly cut-up leaves, they soon put out healthy leaves and all seems well again with the gay cineraria world.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE SERMON

How sickness and disability may be overcome by bringing thinking into accord with the truth of God and man through prayer will be the topic of Christian Science services Sunday.

"Are Sin, Disease, and Death Real?" is the subject of the Lesson-Sermon. Selections to be read from the Bible include the account (Matthew 9) of Christ Jesus' raising of Jairus' daughter from the dead, his restoring of sight to the two blind men, and his healing of the "dumb man possessed with a devil."

From "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy the following passage will be read:

"Jesus strips all disguise from error, when his teachings are fully understood. By parable and argument he explains the impossibility of good producing evil; and he also scientifically demonstrates this great fact, proving by what are wrongly called miracles, that sin, sickness, and death are beliefs—illusory errors—which he could and did destroy" (343:14).

The Golden Text is from Jeremiah:

"Heal me, O Lord, and I shall be healed; save me, and I shall be saved: for thou art my praise" (17:14).

something from the council. Those who have consistently stuck to generalities in their public utterances impress us as showing the better judgment. At least they know they don't know. They would find it easier to catch on as to how one runs the town and gets along with a whimsical citizenry than the people with preconceived notions that they'll have to get rid of if elected.

However, for the first time under its present ownership (14 years), the Pine Cone makes no recommendation. Go ahead and vote for your friends, and don't worry about it.

The holdover councilmen and the citizens have a way of beating into shape the rawest new councilmen.

Public Invited To Friends' Lecture

The Monterey Peninsula Friends meeting (Quakers) is sponsoring a lecture by George Vigar from Bruderhof in Paraguay. This lecture will be held at the Church of the Wayfarer tonight at 8:00 o'clock in Luther Hall.

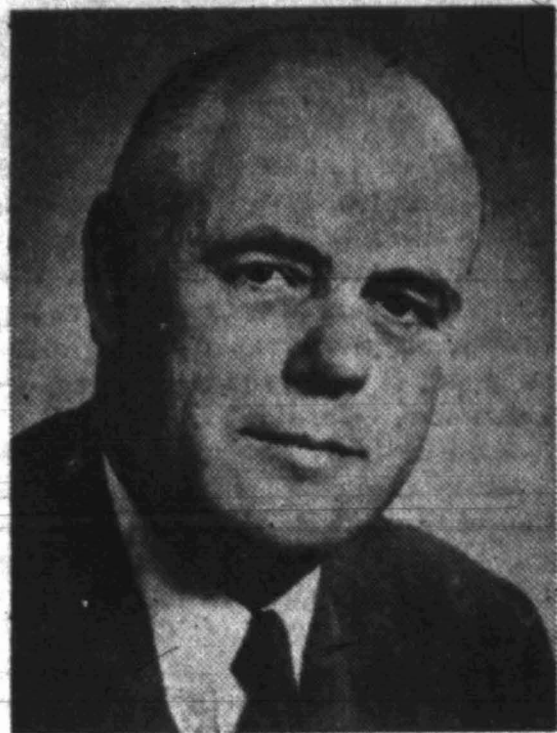

Mr. and Mrs. Vigar are traveling around the country giving lectures and showing pictures of "this most successful of all intentional Christian communities" to enthusiastic audiences. As anti-Nazis they sought refuge in England before the war and so had to be interned as enemy aliens when war started. However, the English offered to release them to any country that would offer them hospitality which Paraguay did. Their story of a different approach to world problems should prove full of interest.

L. I. McLELLAN

Business authorities are scheduled to appear on the Realtors' Sales Conference Rally to be held April 12, at Cademartori's on the Salinas Highway according to L. I. McLellan, president of the California Real Estate Association, in a letter to Louis Conlon, president of the Carmel Board of Realtors.

The Conference is under the joint sponsorship of Monterey Peninsula Board of Realtors and the Carmel Board of Realtors.

Featured speaker will be Ralph W. Carney of Wichita, Kansas. Carney, executive vice-president of a nationally prominent manufacturing concern, is sought after throughout the nation as an authority on marketing and as a sales lecturer. He has appeared as a featured speaker and on other CREA sales conferences throughout the state at which time he was given acclaim as one of the most outstanding and dynamic salesmen in the nation.

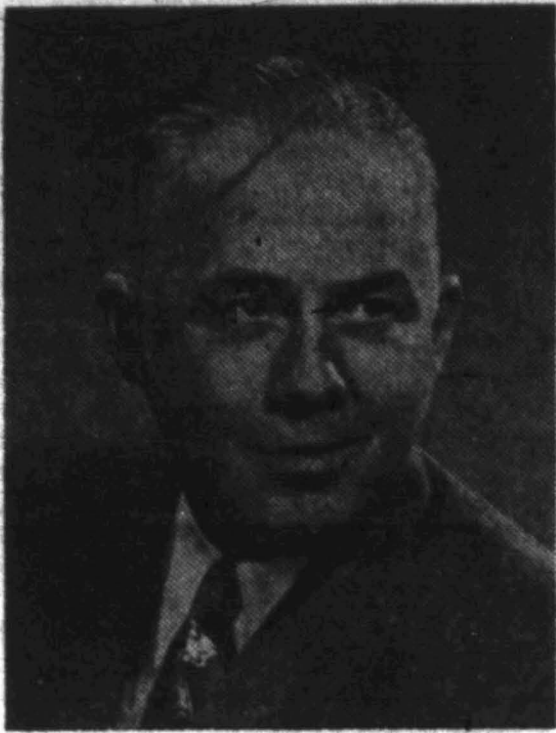

Walter E. Elieson, business specialist, United States Department of Commerce, and Dr. Philip Neff, Associate Professor of Business Economics at the University of California at Los Angeles, are participating on a Business Outlook Panel. The material which they have gathered and developed specifically for this conference has been taken from President Eisenhower's Economic Advisory Committee reports and will include a business summary from the national, state and local levels.

According to Louis Conlon, the results of a recent statewide real estate survey made by the California Real Estate Association in cooperation with eight colleges and universities in California, will be among the highlights of the program.

City Council Does This And That: But Nothing Drastic

tion. Rate for a single collection was raised from 35 cents to 50 cents. Council denied application by the Carmel Playhouse for permission to put up a directional sign at Monte Verde and Ocean Avenue on private property. It also said no to a street light at Eighth and Monte Verde.

No action was taken on the State Board of Equalization notice of an application for an on-sale beer and wine license by the French Restaurant. Chief of Police said the council had no legal grounds for protest.

It approved the recommendation of the recreation commission to make a picnic area adjacent to the city tennis courts and instructed the street department to install a barbecue pit and tables.

First reading was given an ordinance making minor changes in the business license fee in the lower brackets.

In an effort to calm rising indignation of residents at the city's policy of using the streets as a mixing area for black top, council decided that all residents along streets to be so employed would receive a notice in advance explaining why their street was to be so employed.

Council adjourned with an incomplete agenda until April 20 when it will clear up the unfinished business before canvassing the vote of the April 13 election and inducting new candidates into office.

Zenas Potter Has Accomplished Something Quite Special In His One-Man Show At The Art Gallery

By DORA HAGEMEYER

If you want to see some charming fairy-tales go to the Art Institute gallery and see Zenas Potter's show of paintings to illustrate his wife's stories for children. These clever little paintings put into visible form the tiny characters so dear to all children who have been fortunate enough to read about them. They have caught the spirit of childhood and the charm of minute proportions — a grass-blade becomes a tower and a leaf spreads its enormous canopy over the wee denizens of a miniature world.

Here you may see a little old woman emerge from the shadows of the forest, carrying her load of faggots, a group of well-loved toys gather around the piano for a concert; the Littlebit Family of wide-spread fame play around their whimsical dwelling, riding mice and enjoying their lives of vivid make-believe; animal-town picnics, moving-day for Mr. and Mrs. Gnome, River-traffic with frogs sailing rafts and caterpillars looking on from the reeds. All these charming little creatures glow and caper in their fresh bright colours.

But the most interesting pictures in the whole exhibit, and the most skilfully achieved, are the toy horses from Benares and the Italian Figurines. These are very beautifully painted and are most impressive. The Benares toys from ancient caves are said to be thousands of years old, and the artist has reproduced them in all their quaintness and antique style. The little figurines from Italy retain the mellow richness of old masterpieces.

Zenas Potter has accomplished something quite special in this group. His sense of colour and of values, and his appreciation of the world of childhood make him an excellent illustrator, a further achievement in his growing list of talents.
